A Word From Mr. Stiefel

This week the Ivoryton Playhouse is proud to present an outstanding group of stars in one of the finest plays of the season. With us are Basil Rathbone, Meg Mundy, Colin Keith-Johnston, and David Cole in "The Winslow Boy". Mr. Rathbone, of course, needs no introduction to our audiences. Miss Mundy, one of the founders of New Stages, won the greatest critical acclaim heard in New York in many years for her leading role in John Paul Satre's "The Respectful Prostitute". Colin Keith-Johnston has just returned from a triumphant All Star festival tour of George Bernard Shaw's "Getting Married" with Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Dennis King, Mady Christians, and many other great names of the theater. Master Cole is the young man who received so much attention for his magnificent performance on Broadway this season in "The Innocents". This will truly be a magnificent evening at Ivoryton, and one that will long be remembered as a new high in Summer Theater entertainment.

Following "The Winslow Boy" that famous comedian, Stuart Erwin, will be at Ivoryton to star in the play which has made a household legend of the invisible white rabbit — "Harvey".

On the following week Joanne Dru and John Ireland will star in Shaw's wonderful satire "Arms and the Man", and Brian Aherne will appear later in "Dear Brutus". There will be a special surprise play in the week in-between, as yet unannounced.

Tickets for all of the above attractions are now on sale at the box office, which for your convenience, will be open during the intermissions.

Sincerely yours,

MILTON STIEFEL
